DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 105-107 and 109-117 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is not clear upon reading independent claims 105 and 109 whether applicant is claiming an apparatus or a product. The term "cartridge" is a product limitation and thus the claims, for purposes of examination have been interpreted as product claims wherein the cartridge is an air bag. It is respectfully suggested that applicant change "cartridge" to -- air bag --.

3. Claim 105 recites the limitation "the bunched up film" in line 5. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.
4. Claims 106, 110, 113-116 recite the limitation "the film". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 105-107 and 109-117 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Specht (US 5755457).

The phrases "in use, to be made into air bags" and "from which air bags are to be made" in claims 105 and 109 are an intended use limitation and has been given little too no patentable weight since it has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987).

Specht discloses a cartridge/air bag comprising an elongate tube (column 1, lines 19-28, column 3, lines 22-37, 1 from Figs. 3-4) the tube including a passage throughout the length thereof which air is arranged to pass in order to comprise the air in the air bags (no reference number in Fig 3 but is the gap between folded sides of air bag 1 from Fig. 3), characterized in that the tube has been bunched up along its elongate axis such that the length of the bunched up film is less than the length of the extended film (Figs. 3-4), in which the film is detached from at least one end of a container (6 from Figs. 3-4) of the tube (since the expanding edge of the bag in Figs. 3-4 is not attached to 6 from Figs. 3-4), including an elongate member extending through the tube through which member air is arranged to flow (10 from Fig. 3), wherein the passage is opened through the natural role flexure of the bunched up film (Fig. 4), and wherein the elongate member comprises a carrier (6 from Figs. 3-4).
